NOTIFICATION – 04 December, 2021

The transition during this century invited various challenges in field of higher education. As a matter of fact, the present higher education institutions and existing mind set of the teachers require upgradation of the skill and refinement of teaching aptitude as well as methods. The new National Education Policy-2020 simply demands a new kind of skills and upgraded knowledge, and universities / institutions have to be transformed in order to remain relevant.

In today's world, education is facing major challenges to provide knowledge and skills to the students with competencies needed for their future. Thus, it is necessary to consider informal ways of learning, and to apply digital technologies and modern pedagogical methods to address these challenges. The National Education Policy 2020 is a comprehensive framework to guide the development of education in the country. It was announced at a time when the education sector was passing through a crisis of unprecedented disruption, but thanks to the technology and upgradation of academic delivery and assessment via online mode that the NEP has been taken up in a positive manner by the educationist and students.

The innovative pedagogy including digital teaching models using ICT, multiple skill based teaching, and multidisciplinary approaches are needed to implement the NEP smoothly. Various methods were adapted for delivery of academic content to the students in an unblemished way. For the purpose, teachers must be updated and refreshed regularly through the different Faculty Development Programs as they play important role in the development of the nation enhancing skills and grooming the human resources.

Keeping above mentioned points in mind, Faculty Development Centre (FDC), HNB Garhwal University, established under the PMMMNMTT scheme of MHRD, Govt. of India is organizing Short Term Training Program (Faculty Development Program) on 'Strategies for Implementation of National Education Policy 2020' through online mode during December 28, 2021 – January 03, 2022.
